YOU'RE NICKED!

CATCH THE MOST DRAMATIC COP FOOTAGE FROM AROUND THE UK

Adrenalin junkie Natalie Pinkham joins the forces this week for new cop chase show You're Nicked.

The feisty babe travels the UK to reveal stories of crimes caught on camera and her first mission is to Midlands chopper coppers who recount one of the country's most dramatic car chases ever.

A maniac driver raced down the M1 and after being cornered by cops sets fire to himself and the car, with explosive results.

"His wife was having an affair, he was depressed and became suicidal," Natalie says. "He drove at 130mph down the motorway. My heart was in my mouth."

Fearless Natalie then heads to the skies herself with the Met to track criminals over the mean streets of London.

The cops chase a man on the run wielding a knife. But Natalie, 29, discovers there's a lighter side to the job, too, for example when they spot one criminal hopping from garden to garden with the odd dance move in between.

"It was a bit like Hot Fuzz," she says. "He was high and had no idea what he was doing. He sees his own reflection in a pool of water. He stops and then starts dancing - that's how they catch him. He's just off his face!"

"We're used to seeing that in America but not over here."
